Are mobile homes friendly for the environment?

General · https://mysunrisecommunity.com/faq/are-mobile-homes-friendly-for-the-environment/

Yes, because mobile homes are built in a factory and under specific guidelines, the amount of waste in construction is significantly less. Moreover, excess materials can readily be recycled within the factory. Most new mobile homes come standard with energy efficient dual pained windows and insulation in the roof, floor and walls allowing the owners to reduce energy usage.